Her areas of expertise include Business Ethics, empowering women around the world through micro-lending & education and working with organizations in creating an economically sustainable company through employee treatment & development.

She is the former founding director of the Office of Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion at Saint Peter's. Chair of the Ethics & Integrity Working Group for Middle States Commission on Higher Education Re-accreditation. While at Saint Peter's she was the faculty chair for the newly formed Prospanica chapter. She serves on the board of directors for the LINDA foundation, and the NJPAC Latino Council to promote the arts amongst Latinos and she is a lifetime board Member GLACO Foro Educativo 2017-present. Under the auspices of the Consulate Generals of 20 governments of Latin America she works on issues related to the educational needs of these immigrant communities in the U.S. In March 2018 she became a special envoy for Education & Social Entrepreneurship for the United Nations office of El Salvador. She is a HISPA role model, working to encourage middle school children to pursue higher education in STEM. In November of 2022, she received a "Mujeres Brillantes" award from Prospanica NJ.

In October 2021, she was selected as a Rutgers' University Minority Servicing Institution (MSI) Aspiring Leaders program to join the third cohort in this program. She was one of fourteen selected from a nationwide pool of 500. This program, supported by grants from ECMC Foundation and The Kresge Foundation, brings together prominent leaders from Minority Serving Institutions (MSIs) to engage with mid-career aspiring leaders from education, non-profit, and business sectors in an effort to prepare the next generation of MSI presidents. By providing professional development workshops focused on 21st-century skills as well as two years of post-forum mentorship, MSI Aspiring Leaders cultivates future MSI presidents by strengthening pathways to leadership and building connections between peers with similar aspirations and abilities.

Dr. Marcillo graduated from Alfred University in 1990 with a Bachelor of Science in Business Administration which she attended on a full academic scholarship. Upon graduation, she went to work in various capacities for 16+ years at 3M Company, Jostens Corporation, and Automatic Data Processing (ADP) Corporation. While working, she earned her master's in business administration from Centenary University in New Jersey and her Doctor of Management from the Institute for Advanced Studies at Colorado Technical University where she concentrated on Environmental and Social Sustainability. She is a mother of three young adult children, who are all in college.
